WORLD COMMUNICATIONS DAY 2018

“THE TRUTH WILL SET YOU FREE” (JN 8:32) FAKE NEWS AND JOURNALISM FOR PEACE

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

COMMUNICATION IS PART OF GOD’S PLAN FOR US and an essential way to experience fellowship. Made in the image and likeness of our Creator, we are able to express and share all that is true, good, and beautiful. We are able to describe our own experiences and the world around us, and thus to create historical memory and the understanding of events. But when we yield to our own pride and selfishness, we can also distort the way we use our ability to communicate. This can be seen from the earliest times, in the biblical stories of Cain and Abel and the Tower of Babel (cf. Gen 4:4-16; 11:1-9). The capacity to twist the truth is symptomatic of our condition, both as individuals and communities. On the other hand, when we are faithful to God’s plan, communication becomes an effective expression of our responsible search for truth and our pursuit of goodness.

In today’s fast-changing world of communications and digital systems, we are witnessing the spread of what has come to be known as “fake news.” This calls for reflection, which is why I have decided to return in this World Communications Day Message to the issue of truth, which was raised time and time again by my predecessors, beginning with Pope Paul VI, whose 1972 message took as its theme: “Social Communications at the Service of Truth.” In this way, I would like to contribute to our shared commitment to stemming the spread of fake news and to rediscovering the dignity of journalism and the personal responsibility of journalists to communicate the truth.

DEAR BROTHERS AND SISTERS IN CHRIST:

Welcome to the Diocese of Brooklyn's 27th annual World Communications Day Catholic Media Conference. As communicators, our primary obligation is to seek what is true. This experience should be liberating, but sometimes the search for the truth can be difficult. Pope Francis challenges us to inspire a responsible approach to telling the stories of our brothers and sisters. Not merely surrendering to the evil of sensationalism or exploiting gossip for entertainment, but recognizing the purity of truth and declaring it to the world.

In his message for this year's World Communications Day, the Holy Father writes, "We are able to describe our own experiences and the world around us, and thus to create historical memory and the understanding of events. But when we yield to our own pride and selfishness, we can also distort the way we use our ability to communicate."

We, in the Diocese of Brooklyn, are blessed that for more than a century, we have had a model of fierce veracity right at our fingertips. For 110 years, The Tablet's ink has documented the news and events of our diocese. Decades after they were printed, these pages now serve as a detailed week-by-week historical record of our diocese.

Ed Wilkinson has been a part of that effort for nearly five decades. We can trust that under his leadership The Tablet's news and editorials highlight our past and tell the story of our future.

At your place setting, you will find a card that reproduces one of the Tablet's front pages. They serve as a testament to the paper's unyielding pledge to report the news. Some of these covers include the last century's most turbulent times—world wars, the assassination of the only Catholic president and calls to stop the arms race. Others celebrate Church events and the consecration of new bishops. Some covers report life at its sweetest—local softball games that ended in victory for the good guys, or photographs of loved ones welcoming soldiers home from Vietnam. Bright Christmas campaigns light up covers, but dim in comparison to the faces of children who receive a special gift they may not have imagined. The pages also showcase the publicity and support of financial campaigns, further enriching the life of the Church.

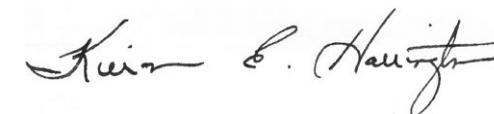

Ed's approach has always been promoting The Tablet as a "sign of unity" by presenting the Church's message to a wider community. He has often said his biggest challenge as editor is, "Giving the readers the news without putting your views in it." Therefore, when he was named editor 33 years ago, he made it his mission to highlight the news in ways the local church was living out its identity as the People of God.

It was under Ed's editorship that the Brooklyn and Queens' unique identity as the diocese of immigrants became the centerfold. The Tablet reports on the diocese's diversity weekly. It covers Mexican faithful carrying torches through the streets and gatherings of Croatian and Vietnamese Catholics. New faith communities are chronicled in their beginning stages, such as the growing African congregation in East New York and Queens Village, alongside the rapidly expanding Asian Catholic population. Visiting prelates from homelands far away connect with newcomers to Brooklyn in the pages of the paper. With each edition, The Tablet helps us see our strength through our diversity.

In an ever-secularizing culture The Tablet has earned its reputation as a faithful witness to the truth, both for the Church and the world. The newspaper has not ignored reporting on tough issues. In the face of the culture of death, The Tablet affirms the primacy of all life. When clergy were accused of sexual misconduct, The Tablet went to print with the news. Through the years, it has covered school closings and parish mergers with perspective often omitted from the secular media.

As you can see, The Tablet remains America's most influential diocesan newspaper. Today, we honor Ed Wilkinson, for keeping it as such – a true exponent of religious freedom. We raise our glasses for him and to the Catholic press.

Your brother in Christ,

Using surveys completed by Roman Catholic dioceses, researchers analyzed "the nature and scope of the problem of sexual abuse of minors by Catholic priests and deacons in the United States." The USCCB commissioned the study.

THE CATHOLIC PERSPECTIVE ON NEWS AND OPINION

FROM THE DIOCESE OF BROOKLYN AND QUEENS

THE TABLET HAS BEEN THE OFFICIAL CATHOLIC NEWSPAPER of the Diocese of Brooklyn since 1909. Begun in 1908 as a private enterprise, it was purchased by Brooklyn's second bishop, Charles E. McDonnell, as the voice of the Church in Brooklyn.

For 110 years, it has been published on a weekly basis. The Tablet brings its readers news, commentary and reactions to the life of the Catholic Church. Once a national publication, today The Tablet concentrates on local news written by staff members, with national and international news supplied by Catholic News Service in Washington, D.C.

Originally, a standard size sheet, The Tablet is now a full-color tabloid publication that is printed on the state-of-the-art presses of the Staten Island Advance in Staten Island.

In addition to news, each week's edition includes a column by Bishop Nicholas DiMarzio, The Editor's Space by Editor Ed Wilkinson, commentary on the week's Scriptures, letters to the editor, an arts and leisure column by Father Robert Lauder, and Around the Diocese, a calendar of upcoming events in the parishes of Brooklyn and Queens.

With a circulation of almost 75,000, The Tablet is the only diocesan-run Catholic weekly in New York City. It also has circulation in 45 states across the country.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC DIOCESE OF BROOKLYN serves the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens. It is presided by the seventh and current Bishop of Brooklyn, His Excellency, the Most Reverend Nicholas DiMarzio, a champion of immigrant rights.

The boroughs' combined population stands at more than 4.9 million, of which 1.5 million identify themselves as Catholics. The diocesan cathedral is the Cathedral Basilica of St. James in downtown Brooklyn. The Co-Cathedral of St. Joseph in Prospect Heights was elevated in February 2013 by Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI, and was dedicated on May 13, 2014, by Bishop DiMarzio. The faces of the people in the pews of St. Joseph's reflect the diversity of the many cultures that call the Diocese of Brooklyn home. It is also among the largest churches in Brooklyn and Queens.

Due to its multicultural and diverse populations, Masses are regularly held in 24 different languages across the Diocese, throughout 185 parishes with 210 churches. Its 26 ethnic ministries promote cultural events and provide an opportunity for immigrants to belong to the larger community while preserving and sharing their uniqueness and traditions.

Within its borders is the seventh largest Catholic school network in the United States, with 85 elementary schools and academies that educate more than 27,000 students.

Last year, the diocese celebrated 15,885 Baptisms. There were 11,957 First Communions, 9,549 Confirmations and 1,951 Marriages. The diocese had an average weekly attendance of nearly 230,000 of the faithful at over 1,000 weekly Sunday Masses said in Brooklyn and Queens.
